

Anne Couvent's Ascending Lineage to Henry III, King of England

Based in part on the Genealogical Research of Roland-Yves Gagné and Laurent Kokanosky,
Heraldry Research and Artwork by John P. DuLong

Anne Couvent came to New France from Picardy with her husband Philippe Amiot / Hameau and two sons, Jean and Mathieu, in 1636. A third child, Charles, was born in New France. In addition, her nephew, Toussaint Ledran, the son of Louis Ledran and Charlotte Couvent, also settled in New France. Many Canadians and Americans descend from one of the Couvent sisters and thus from royalty.

Henry III of England was the son of evil King John "Lackland" and the nephew of King Richard I "the Lionheart." His son was Edward I "Longshanks." Henry reigned from 1216 to 1272.
