

Anne Couvent's Ascending Lineage to Thibault I, King of Navarre

Based in part on the Genealogical Research of Roland-Yves Gagné and Laurent Kokanosky,

Anne Couvent came to New France from Picardy with her husband Philippe Amiot / Hameau and two sons, Jean and Mathieu, in 1636. A third child, Charles, was born in New France. In addition, her nephew, Toussaint Ledran, the son of Louis Ledran and Charlotte Couvent, also settled in New France. Many Canadians and Americans descend from one of the Couvent sisters and thus from royalty.

Thibault was the IV of that name to be the count of Champagne when he inherited from his maternal uncle, Sancho VI, the kingdom of Navarre. He reigned as Thibault I of Navarre from 1234 to 1253. Through Thibault, Anne Couvent descends from the kings of Castile and Leon, many noble Spanish families, and the legendary Roderigo Diaz de Vivar, El Cid.
